POLICE PATROL GARY TO PREVENT RIOTS

School Student Strike Over Question Of Segregation Menaces Peace Of Indiana City—Mass Meetings Broken Up

GARY, Ind., Sept. 29.—Fearing a return of the dreaded race riots of several years ago, Gary police today patrolled the negro section with machine guns mounted upon fast detective bureau automobiles to prevent any disorder growing out of the strike of 1,267 Emerson High School students who refuse to return to their studies until twenty-four colored students are removed from the school.

Issuing an ultimatum that they would not return to their school until drastic segregation orders have been carried out or complete muster, the students were to assemble again today to discuss realities of the school board they resume their studies.

Three negro mass meetings were broken up. Negro students in other schools are being kept home in fear of violence, police declared.

School officials indicated they would take no official action other than making suggestions. The matter is squarely up to the superintendent of schools, William A. Wirt.

Meanwhile school officials are tracing a report that behind the action of the striking students is Ku Klux Klan agitation. In connection with the investigation, the parentage and religious faiths of the striking students are being checked up.

The committee has been instructed to insist that all "striking" students be excused from making up school work lost so far.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF DAYTON POLICEMAN DIES FROM WOUNDS

Accused Killer Of Train Detective Back In Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio, Sept. 29.—With funeral arrangements being made here today for Otis Bridges, negro who was charged with having fatally shot Police Captain John C. Post, Dayton police continued their twelve hour shifts.

Bridges was removed here Wednesday after his death in a Columbus hospital at the same hour that funeral services were being held for the slain police captain. Captain Post and the negro were fatally shot in a gun battle in the negro district last Saturday.

A heavy guard is on duty at the county jail where Roy Freeman, negro, was returned from Columbus Wednesday night. Freeman is under indictment for the first degree murder of William Horn, motorcycle patrolman who was fatally shot several weeks ago. Freeman is to go to trial here Oct. 10.

Following the death of Captain Post, Sunday, the police detail was changed from eight to twelve hours in order to prevent possible race uprisings.

A circus clown, traveling in Texas, offered $100 to anyone who would duplicate his trick of scratching his head with one foot while standing on the other. He found no takers but a few days practice enabled the young son of F. L. Malone of Beaumont to master the stunt. Now young Mr. Malone, above, is patiently waiting for another circus season to roll around.

EVIDENCE CLOUDED IN KENT FLOGGING

AKRON, O., Sept. 29.—A quiet investigation has been under way for the past month into the alleged flogging of Alfred Harris, Kent furniture dealer, but owing to conflicting statements from persons questioned it is proving a difficult matter to get at the facts in the case, according to a statement of Summit County Prosecutor Oscar Hunsicker.

"As the present grand jury will probably end its session next week, it is doubtful if we will get evidence enough to bring the case before that body," Hunsicker declared today. "We have had great difficulty in examining Harris and others, and much of the testimony already taken is hardly reliable enough to warrant action."

Hunsicker said he had been offered full co-operation by Portage County authorities.

Deputy Sheriff John Smith was in Kent this week continuing the investigation into the case for Hunsicker.

ARREST THWARTS POLITICAL PLOT

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—A daring plot to provoke strained relations between Yugoslavia and Greece has been thwarted by the arrest of three Bulgarian members of the Macedonian Revolutionary Committee in Salonika, according to dispatches from Athens today.

The three prisoners, according to the dispatches, have confessed complicity in a plot to blow up the Yugoslav consulate at Salonika and the Greek consulate at Skoplo for the purpose of precipitating severance of diplomatic relations between Yugoslavia and Greece and ultimate war between those two countries.

MURDER SUSPECT AT LARGE MAY RECOVER BACK TAXES

POULTRY FARMER IS OBJECT OF SEARCH; KLAN BURNS CROSS

Counsel For Jersey Suspect May Face Charges Himself

SOUTH VINELAND, N. J., Sept. 29.—While detectives were searching in Baltimore for Willis Beach, 52-year-old poultry farmer wanted in connection with the murder of Dr. William Lillendahl, 72, retired physician, a spectacular demonstration was staged early today in front of the home of Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, the slain man's widow, held under guard as a material witness in her husband's shooting.

Shortly after three o'clock this morning, five unidentified men drove up to the Lillendahl home here, and placed a five-foot wooden cross on the lawn. The cross was ignited, and the bright light of the blaze shone into the darkened windows of the house. Mrs. Lillendahl arose, switched on a light in her bedroom, took a brief look at the fiery cross, and then extinguished the light.

The state trooper who was assigned last night to guard the home of Mrs. Lillendahl, who is ostensibly free under $25,000 bond as a material witness in the case, did not bother the five men. They drove up the driveway, silently lifted the cross from the back of the car and inserted it in the soft earth. When a torch had been applied, and the cross blazing fiercely, they climbed back into the car and drove off.

The Ku Klux Klan is known to have been active for some months past in this section of New Jersey, but as far as is known, no demonstrations have been staged in South Vineland.

"One misadventure," according to Prosecutor Louis Repetto, prevents him from presenting the case to the grand jury today. The prosecutor stated he expected to have his chain of evidence completed shortly, however, and would ask the grand jury for indictments as soon as possible.

Beach, meanwhile, had successfully eluded his pursuers. The white-haired poultry farmer, who has admitted carrying on a clandestine correspondence with Mrs. Lillendahl, left his home early Tuesday morning. He was under $5,000 bond as a material witness, but a warrant is now out charging him with "aiding and abetting" the murder.

Edison Hedges, Beach's attorney, continued his assertions today that he will produce his client only when ordered to do so by a court of law or if an indictment is returned against him. Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle, although refusing to say whether any action would be taken against Hedges, told newspapermen that "obstructing justice is a misdemeanor in this state, punishable by a $1,000 fine or three years in jail" and inferred that Hedges was laying himself open to prosecution on this score.

NAMES DOG AS HOME WRECKER

A dog has become the chief figure in a divorce suit at Kansas City, Mo., that unfolds the story of a man's fondness for a pet, which his wife complains, broke up their home. In her divorce petition, Mrs. Mary Haglage charges her husband, Walter, humiliated her before friends by leaving her in the family motor car, while riding with friends, to frolic with the dog. Above, Mrs. Haglage, upper right, the husband, lower left, the dog.

DAYTON WOMAN KILLS HUSBAND; SHOOTING FOLLOWS ARGUMENT

DAYTON, O., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Charlotte Grice, 28, was to be arraigned on a charge of murder in Municipal Court here today, following the death of her husband, Raymond Grice, who was shot and killed shortly after midnight in the Grice home.

Mrs. Grice, according to police, admits having fired the fatal shot but declared she only shot to frighten her husband. Harley Roberts and Mrs. Edward Myers, who are said to have been in the house at the time of the tragedy, are being held by police as material witnesses.

The shooting, according to police reports, culminated an argument of several hours. Grice attempted to choke his wife, police were told. The electric lights were switched out, a shot was fired. Roberts told police he switched the lights on and saw Grice lying on the floor near the bathroom door. The bullet had struck him in the forehead. Police are holding a Spanish pistol found on the floor, as evidence.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS MAY ACT TO ENDORSE GOVERNOR SMITH

Tammany And Up-State Supporters Gather At Albany—Will Put "Soft Pedal" On Wet Activities

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Democratic state convention which gets under way here this afternoon, may take formal action to endorse Governor Alfred E. Smith as the next Democratic presidential candidate.

Although New York state affairs constituted the scheduled business of the convention, the governor's presidential chances were the sole topic of discussion among party leaders. The leaders predicted that the convention would be turned into a "love feast" for the governor. And it was expected that a typical "Al Smith" demonstration would be staged by the delegates.

Governor Smith's up-state supporters and Tammany leaders are comparing notes for the first time since William G. McAdoo, hitherto the New York governor's chief rival for the Democratic nomination, announced his withdrawal from the race. Governor Smith's keynote speech was eagerly awaited.

The leaders were somewhat perturbed at the expressed intention of Assemblyman Louis H. Cuvillier of New York City, to take the floor with a proposal to call a national constitutional convention for the purpose of accomplishing repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The leaders desired to put the soft pedal on this subject in order to avoid embarrassing Governor Smith.

The Tammany leaders, headed by George W. Olvany, are the guests of the Governor at the executive mansion. Conferences were held last night and this morning.

POLISH BREAK OFF LOAN NEGOTIATIONS

WARSAW, Sept. 29.—The Polish government has broken off negotiations with American bankers for the flotation of a $70,000,000 Polish rehabilitation loan in the United States, it was announced today.

It was understood that the government was unable to agree on the net price at which the Polish bonds were to be sold. The government was willing to agree to a price of $97 but the American bankers were not willing to go above $94.

The announcement of negotiations being broken off followed closely the news from Washington that the American state department would grant its approval of the loan.

LEGION IN ROME

ROME, Sept. 29.—Two hundred members of the American Legion, stopping here on their "good-will tour" of Europe, today visited the Army and Cavalry school at Tor di Quinte, witnessing a remarkable stunt riding by Italian cavalry officers.

INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU SAYS FRAUD OPENS PROSECUTION

Time Clause Does Not Protect In Cases Of False Returns

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Without time limitation the government may take steps to recover back taxes, wherever it is discovered that fraud was involved in the preparation of returns, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today.

A. W. Gregg, solicitor of the bureau, held that the former requirement that fraud must be discovered within three years of filing of the return is not applicable and that "it is proper for the tax to be assessed at any time after the fraud is discovered."

That many millions of dollars are due the government from persons who made fraudulent tax returns was opinion of treasury officials. Under the new decision it was anticipated that a renewed effort will be made to get this money into government vaults.

The decision resulted from a case brought before the bureau involving a taxpayer who filed delinquent returns for 1916, 1917 and 1918. More than five years after filing of the returns a field investigation disclosed that the income shown was grossly underestimated and it appeared from evidence that the understatement was wilful and for the purpose of evading tax.

After a study of the various tax laws, according to the decision, it was shown that the three-year provision for discovery in the 1916 law had been nullified by subsequent acts. Orders were issued to proceed against the delinquent taxpayer under the fraud clause.

Under the law, except in the case of false returns, the commission of internal revenue is required to make final determination of the amount due within five years of the filing of the return. Following that period, taxes are held to be settled finally.

Many tax returns of bootleggers, smugglers, gamblers and others are said to be under study by the treasury, involving large sums of money due the government. Gains accruing from unlawful occupations are held taxable although losses resulting from similar business cannot be deducted for the purpose of computing taxable income.

Damages Denied

"Any woman who submits herself to a permanent waving operation voluntarily assumes the risk of having her scalp burned and is not entitled to damages." So held a jury in the case of Mrs. Vina Murphy of Sioux City, Ia., above, in her suit for $2,000 against a beauty shop.

BRITISH LANDED TO PROTECT MISSION FROM CHINESE FIRE

Cantonese War Ship Opens Fire On City Of Swatow

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A Cantonese warship has opened fire on the city of Swatow, necessitating the landing of British troops to protect an English mission there, according to dispatches from Hong Kong today.

The Cantonese vessel opened fire Wednesday, later landing one hundred troops which were scattered by rifle fire from the peasant army which has occupied Swatow.

The British warships Bluebell and Sirdar were struck by bullets during the exchange of shots, and a party was immediately despatched from the Bluebell to protect the British mission.

Desultory firing between the Chinese factions is continuing.

The American cruiser Asheville is anchored in the river off Swatow to protect American lives and property, the Navy Department at Washington has been informed in an official despatch which described the condition there as "chaotic."

ASKS IMMEDIATE TRIAL FOR SLAYER

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—The state today was prepared to ask for the immediate trial here of Harry J. "Lefty" Lewis, in connection with the slaying of Max Braverman, junk dealer.

Efforts will also be made to establish a connection between the slaying of Braverman and the bomb explosion which destroyed part of the home of Louis Newman, one of the principal witnesses for the state.

Braverman was attending a meeting of junk dealers who had gathered in protest against joining a union organization said to have been promoted by Lewis and his colleagues, when he was shot.

KRESGE BOY FALLS FROM HIGH CLIFF

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—Eight-year-old Jimmy Kresge, son of S. L. Kresge, manager of the Cleveland chain of Kresge five and ten cent stores, today was convalescing in a local hospital from a fifty-five foot fall which he suffered Sunday.

Details of the accident, in which Jimmy sustained a compound fracture of the left leg, were related by his parents today. He and two companions were playing at the top of a cliff near the lake front. In attempting to push a railroad tie to the top of the bank, pulled him to the top of the edge.

"I shut my eyes and counted up to five on the way down," the boy told his parents, "and then I thought I was going to be killed."

However, Jimmy made his landing in soft mud. A few feet to the left he would have hit a bed of rock. He managed to crawl thirty feet and the two other boys, after a half hour of work, pulled him to the top of the bank. At the hospital today he was reported to be recovering rapidly.

AMERICAN MUST SERVE OUT HIS FOREIGN LEGION ENLISTMENT

PARIS, Sept. 29.—The return to the United States of Bennett J. Doty, young American war veteran whose enlistment in the French Foreign Legion, his desertion from that famous organization, his subsequent court martial and sentence to prison, and most recently his pardon by the French government, have stirred the people of both the United States and France, apparently is a long way off.

Doty today was enroute from Marseilles to Midi Bel Abbes, Algeria, to report for duty with the First Regiment of the Foreign Legion to serve out the remainder of his enlistment, according to an announcement by the Ministry of War.

Doty left Marseilles yesterday at two o'clock aboard the steamer Governor General Farrere enroute to Oran.

Barring a later decision by Minister of War Painleve, Doty will serve the full five years of his enlistment, from which the time prior to his desertion, and the time he spent in prison, will be deducted.

REPORT DEMOCRATS FAVOR SELECTION; MUST LEAVE MORGAN

Endorsement Of New Mexico Ambassador Made By Demmies

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Dwight W. Morrow will be confirmed by the senate as ambassador to Mexico if he proves he has severed all relations with the firm of J. P. Morgan and Co., it was declared today by senatorial leaders.

Democratic endorsement of the appointment of Morrow swept away fears of some administration leaders that his nomination would lead to a prolonged battle in the senate. Some opposition, which lingers among insurgents and Democrats, it was said, will be wiped out if Morrow convinces his critics that he has definitely quit his financial connection and entered the diplomatic service for a public career.

"I think Mr. Morrow will be confirmed," said Senator Duncan U. Fletcher (D), of Fla. "He is a man of great ability and I understand he will retire from all business to devote himself to public service. He can be a very valuable man in Mexico. His capabilities fit him for the serious work of enhancing the mutual good will between the peoples of Mexico and the United States."

Senator Edward I. Edwards (D) of N. J., also championed Morrow's appointment.

"Dwight Morrow will unquestionably be confirmed by the senate without serious opposition," said Edwards. "Those familiar with his phenomenal rise in the business world will realize that, in the face of the peculiar industrial and economic conditions that must be cleared up between the United States and Mexico, the selection of Mr. Morrow is a happy one. Dwight Morrow has been of incalculable help to the state of New Jersey in both civic and political reforms. It is refreshing to see such a man selected—one who is willing to make great personal sacrifices for his country. It was a happy appointment."

This Democratic approval also was seconded by Senator Henry F. Ashurst, of Ariz., while Senator Kenneth McKellar (D) of Tenn., a leader of the progressive wing of his party, also endorsed Morrow.

"I see no objection at this time to Morrow's confirmation," said McKellar. "Certainly his success as a business man is not an argument against his entering the public service. Unless some new information is revealed, which would make him unavailable, I shall vote for his confirmation."

The lingering opposition to Morrow's confirmation probably will come from a handful of insurgents and Democrats, who oppose naming a Morgan banker to Mexico while the controversy there over land titles is unsettled.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Magruder incident is closed. Following a conference with Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder, Secretary of Navy Wilbur announced that no punitive action would be taken against the admiral.

Magruder aroused the ire of his naval superiors by writing a magazine article describing the navy as overorganized and uneconomic.

Wilbur said the article contained many misstatements which would have been corrected had Magruder submitted the article to him in advance of publication. Magruder retorted that his charges were fundamentally correct. He said, in effect, that the navy was getting by on sixty five cents of value out of every dollar expended.

CLEMENCEAU IS 87; REFUSES TO TALK

PARIS, Sept. 29.—"I am too young to express opinions, but I am willing to listen to anything you have to tell me," M. Georges Clemenceau, France's war-time premier, said to an interviewer who sought an expression of the aged statesman's feeling as he entered his eighty-seventh year today.

M. Clemenceau received scores of friends and well-wishers in the home of a friend near where he is staying. He told one interviewer that he planned to return by automobile to his home at Vendee, St. Vincent Sur-Jard next Monday or Tuesday, where he will probably remain several weeks.

HEXAMER NAMED

CANTON, O., Sept. 29.—Earl W. Hexamer, former safety director, has been appointed chief of police here to succeed John "Jiggs" Wise, who was killed in an automobile accident near Lima, last week. Hexamer had not yet accepted the appointment at noon today.

SUIT BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY SEEKING PAYMENT OF FEES

Havela E. Mau, Cincinnati, United States district attorney, has filed suit against Carrie J. Brownell, Beaver Creek Twp., for $4,500, claiming the amount is the balance due for fees rendered the defendant, including legal advice and personal trips made to New York and Miami, Fla., in the interests of his client.

Asserting that he has made frequent demands for his fee, Mau sets forth the defendant is indebted to him for $500 for services and legal advice rendered from December 1, 1925 to March 1, 1927.

The attorney also places his legal fee at $5,000 for services and personal trips made to New York and Miami, Fla., and conferences and legal advice in obtaining the settlement of real estate at both cities from March 2, 1927 to July 1, 1927.

His expense attached to the New York and Miami trips, covering hotel, transportation and other incidental expense, is placed at $600.

Of the total sum, $6,100, the defendant has paid $1,600, leaving a balance of $4,500 due, the petition declares. Mattern, Brumbaugh and Mattern are attorneys for the plaintiff.

DIVORCES ASKED

After thirty-two years of married life, J. W. Shoemaker has filed suit for divorce from Anna Shoemaker in Common Pleas Court, charging she has continually nagged and annoyed him until it is "absolutely impossible" to live longer with her. The action is based on charges of extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. They were married April 23, 1895.

Divorce is also sought in a suit filed by Ollie Judy against Lee Judy, charging gross neglect of duty. They were married in January, 1926.

INJUNCTION SUIT

A temporary restraining order has been allowed in Common Pleas Court in an injunction suit filed by R. M. Martz against Frank McHenry.

Martz declares he owns a farm of about 112 acres in Sugarcreek Twp., and that the defendant, who has been a tenant on the farm for the last three or four years, is surrendering the lease and contemplating leaving the farm in the fall of 1927, although his lease does not expire until March 1, 1928.

Plaintiff asserts there is now a field of twenty acres of growing corn on the farm and that it was his intention, as landlord, to have the corn cut and shocked so the field could be put in wheat in the fall of 1927. It is charged the tenant refuses to cut the corn and put out the wheat crop and is now en-

REPORTED THEFT OF AUTO REVEALS CASE RESULT OF MISTAKE

Reported theft of a Chevrolet coach from J. M. Christy, Jamestown Wednesday morning, from its parking place on E. Main St., opposite the south door of the Court House, was attributed to a mistake, marking the second time in the past two weeks a case of this nature has been called to the attention of authorities.

Christy's car had been parked beside a similar auto, owned by Mose Cramer, Dayton, of The American Loan and Realty Co. Agency, Steele Building.

An employee of Cramer, unable to distinguish the difference, drove away in Christy's machine. Later when Christy returned and took his seat in the parked Chevrolet, he immediately discovered he was in the wrong car as he had left his ignition key in the lock of his own machine.

He reported the apparent theft to police and Deputy Sheriff George Sugden. Sugden obtained the license number of the parked Chevrolet, and convinced a mistake had been made, notified the

Welsbach Gas Heaters

Will give you year 'round comfort at little cost. Their comforting warmth is always ready; their constant trouble-free service is gratefully appreciated; their volume of heat fills every room with friendliness.

Welsbach Heaters Have Many Noteworthy Features

SPECIAL BURNER—The special Welsbach burner has been designed to produce the greatest amount of heat from the gas consumed. It generates steady, intense cones of flame within the glowers which pour into the room an amazing volume of radiant warmth.

GLOWERS—Welsbach glowers are made of clay, which, though brittle, can withstand the most intense heat. Because the header holds the glowers in place, they cannot possibly fall out and break, though each can easily be removed.

CHOKE—A choke, like the choke on your automobile, enables you to enrich the mixture when lighting the heater.

HEADER—This exclusive Welsbach feature is placed above the glowers. It improves combustion and enables each glower to be lighted evenly from bottom to top.

BURNER CAPS—Welsbach burner caps are equipped with fire clay tops, which do not corrode, rust or clog. This means there is no possibility of gas stoppage, no odor, no trouble. Assures full heating value at all times.

FLUE CONNECTION—Because of the special design of Welsbach Heaters, a flue connection of the most approved type can be made. A vent at the back of the heater is provided for this purpose.

FAMILY REUNION

ENJOYED ON SUNDAY
Descendants of the late J. W. and Hannah Lewis held a reunion at the Greene County Fairgrounds, Sunday. All brought well-filled baskets and a bounteous dinner was served at noon. The day was spent in a most pleasant manner, it being the first reunion held for several years.

BURDEN LIFTED AS

YOUTH SENTENCED

Police and Juvenile Court breathed easier Thursday when a "burden" was lifted from their shoulders.

Clarence Burden, 17, who proved to be all that his name implies, was re-committed to the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, O., until he becomes of age, by Juvenile Judge S. C. Wright Thursday morning.

The youth, prior to being re-arrested at the home of a relative Tuesday night, had been sought as a fugitive from justice for three weeks and also as a parole violator.

After being taken to the home of a dead relative to pay his last respects, Burden eluded his guard and escaped September 9.

He will probably be taken to Lancaster to begin his term Friday.

Evangelist Cain will preach both Sunday morning and evening and each night next week except Saturday night.

MOONLIGHT RAINBOW
IN XENIA, Sept. 26—Residents of Castle Rock, south of here, marveled recently at a lunar phenomenon described by them as a "moonlight rainbow."

The lunar halo, they declared, appeared in the west against the shadowy background of the mountain range just as full moon rose in the east. Simultaneously a low hanging cloud cast a silvery mist over the entire town.

Residents said the rainbow colorings were clearly distinguishable, the bow of a silvery appearance, with a deep red on the lower band, fading into blue, green, and the orange.

MARY WATT CHERRY,
PIONEER RESIDENT

Mrs. Mary Watt Cherry, 82, widow of David Cherry and pioneer Greene County resident, passed away at her home, 209 W. Market St., Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Death was the result of infirmities of age. She had been bedfast a year and a half, following a broken hip received in a fall at her home.

Mrs. Cherry would have reached her eighty-third birthday next April 18. She was born near Bainbridge, O., the daughter of William and Sarah Carruthers Watt. Her father moved to the farm, now occupied by her son, Houston H. Cherry, on the Federal Pike, when she was seven years of age and she has spent the remainder of her life in Greene County.

Mrs. Cherry lived on the homestead farm until twenty-four years ago when the family moved to this city. Mr. Cherry preceded his wife in death several years.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Fred Elliott, Greensburg, Ind., W. J. Cherry, Federal Pike, Houston H. Cherry, Federal Pike, and D. W. Cherry, Xenia. Three brothers, James B. Watt, and D. B. Watt, of Cedarville, and one sister, Mrs. Agnes Nash, near Xenia, survive, with five grandchildren.

Mrs. Cherry became affiliated with the Presbyterian Church in girlhood but at the time of her marriage joined the First U. P. Church.

in which she was an active member. She was a charter member of the Woman's Missionary Society of the latter church.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete and will be announced later.

Doctor at 83 Found People
Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs, and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with

By PHIL FRAME

THE CENTRAL HIGH School football team is pointing everything this week in intensive practice sessions for the opening football game of the season against its traditional foe, Washington C. H. High School, at Cox Memorial Athletic Field Friday afternoon.

Because Xenia and Washington are ancient and honorable enemies on the gridiron, this annual game bears all the ear marks of a little world series football contest, and Central is more than anxious to get away to a flying start by defeating its opponent.

The squad emerged from the Alumni tussle without serious injuries although bruises were numerous. Return of Bill Clemans to the lineup will add great strength to the line. He is still under a handicap as his injured right leg has not quite healed, and for this reason he will be used at guard instead of the backfield, where he is most needed.

Coach Kolb is drilling his charges in blocking and tackling this week. A characteristic of the team is that there appear to be few players with a natural talent for tackling. The backfield is being urged to show greater speed and versatility while the line must drive harder on offense than heretofore. The aerial form of attack is also being stressed. Washington's forward passing game is known to be dangerous as was indicated in the Mt. Sterling game last week.

Washington was defeated 19 to 12 but fought a game uphill battle and demonstrated that its greatest strength lies in its overhead game. Behind twelve points in the last quarter, principally by completing forward passes.

Coach Baker was displeased by Washington's showing against Mt. Sterling and promised his players heavy workouts this week with the prospect of several changes in the lineup.

Washington has a fairly heavy team this year. The line will average about 160 pounds and the backfield men are expected to be in the neighborhood of 150 pounds.

Two new outliners and a third baseman have also been engaged. The new gardeners are Jack Davey and Sacksteder, who will play left and center field, respectively. Durnbaugh will be shifted to right field.

In the infield, Tangeman will cover first, "Jug" Conley second, Joe Longnecker shortstop, and Willie Jones, third base. Jones also played with the Reserves last year.

Mike Weller will be used as a utility player for the first time this year. While on a par with Bud Frank as far as catching ability is concerned, Weller is not his equal as a hitter.

This is by far the best aggregation of ball players to represent the Xenia nine this season. Reserves are out to even the series Sunday and make a third game necessary.

Providing the Reserves win the next two games and the series, the local team will probably accept an offer of Manager John Matthews to play the Dayton Marcos, leading Gem City colored team, a game here October 15. It is announced. The offer is conditional that the Reserves beat Indianapolis two out of three games, however.

Reserves have been considerably strengthened for the forthcoming second game of the three-game series with the Indianapolis A. B. C. team Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

The management has obtained Don Clark, of the Dayton Coca Colas, to pitch Sunday's game, assuring fans that the best hurler obtainable will be on the mound.

Buddy Frank, also of the Dayton Coca Colas, who caught for the Reserves last season, will be behind the plate Sunday.

HOPES FOR BEST

Coach Vic Kolb, beginning his third year as coach at Central High School, is hoping for the best when his team meets Washington C. H. in the inaugural game of the regular season Friday afternoon at Cox Memorial Athletic Field. Kolb played football at Ohio Wesleyan under Coach George Gauthier, who is rated as one of the best grid mentors in this section of the country. Kolb had his team stepping high last season when it won eight games and lost two but hopes to keep a clean slate this year.

BILL'S BAD LUCK
Coach Vic Kolb of Central High School is thinking of getting a permanent plaster cast for Bill Clemans, star grinder, who has been having plenty of bad luck this fall.

Bill showed up at the start of the season fresh from an operation for tonsils and adenoids and had to take practice easily. He coaxed the coach to let him run up and down the field however and while cantering in his fashion, stepped in a rut and sprained his ankle.

While the sore ankle was healing Bill kept on the sidelines. Then he elected to sit down on a bench along the sidelines at practice one night, missed the bench by inches and hurt his back. Bill has been so busy damaging himself lately that Coach Kolb will use him at guard instead of fullback Friday.

In the new position he won't have to do much running.

WORK FOR LORD NECESSARY TO SALVATION SAYS EVANGELIST

"Some men believe that because they pay their debts and lead moral lives that they are on the road to Heaven. These men are badly mistaken. The only way to get on the road to Heaven is to work for the Lord," Dr. W. E. Biederwolf told the Wednesday night audience at the First M. E. Church.

"The religious hypocrite is the best recommendation genuine Christianity can have. Men who have led ungodly lives cannot expect to enter the portals of heaven just because they have been responsible for one outstanding good deed. It is all the bunk when you talk about the kinds of heroism and patriotism or going over the top or anything else atoning for a rotten life, lived in open defiance of God's laws and arrogant rebellion against the face of the crucified Son of God."

"Do not let the hypocrite in the church bother you. It is true that we have some hypocrites in the church, but, friend, if you will promise not to get angry at a bit of humor with a real lot of truth in it, it might not be amiss for me to say that those who say they are hypocrites in the church and therefore will not come in, every hypocrite we have in the church came from your side."

"Another thing, and you know this is true, if you will gather the church crowd on one side of the road and the world crowd on the other side and they suit their eyes and gather from each side five hundred at random, the church crowd will, when it comes to law-abiding citizenship and decency and honesty and honor in general, and all the finer points that go to make up a character that approves and man respects—the church crowd will outshine the world crowd as the blazing noon day sun outshines the palefaced moon. The hypocrite recommends the real thing in Christianity."

One hundred and fifty men attended the Business Men's luncheon at the Reformed Church Wednesday night, in connection with the Biederwolf meetings. Dr. W. N. Shank, pastor of First M. E. Church, presided and introduced the speakers of the evening.

Earl Exvey addressed the company on the subject, "The Business Man and Christianity," directing the attention of the men to the fact of the need of Christ in business, because he had tried both ways. Dr. A. C. Messenger gave a talk on "The Doctor and Christianity," emphasizing the need of "The Great Physician" in the practice of medicine.

Attorney W. L. Miller indicated that "The Lawyer and Christianity" are not opposite terms, but that the legal profession contains many leading men who profess Christ and live the Christian life and that Christianity is necessary to the lawyer to make him a positive success. Mayor John W. Prugh talked on "The Necessity and Value of a Campaign of Evangelism for Xenia." He declared that he had heard some 545 cases last year and few, if any, came out of the true Christian home. He made a plea for a Christian Xenia.

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf spoke briefly, recalling his experience in Xenia sixteen years ago and offering a plea for Christ today. He invited the men to attend the First M. E. meetings and a large number present attended the services in a body.

At the opening of the meeting, Homer Grimes, singer, led in several songs and gave a reading, closing his part with one of Sir Harry Lauder's songs. The Rev. J. P. Lytle offered thanks and Dr. Biederwolf closed the meeting with prayer. Women of the Reformed Church served the luncheon.

J. Milton Kelly sang "He Lifted Me" at the evening meeting. The large chorus choir gives a special number each evening. The Rev. D. A. Sellers led the opening prayer. The following announcements were made: Friday evening is "High School and Young People's Night," when Dr. Biederwolf will tell how he won the championship for bicyclists of the world. Saturday is "Community Day" with a picnic dinner in Shawnee Park if the weather permits. If not, at the church. The public is invited. Entertainment will be furnished in the afternoon at the church. Thursday night is "Birthright Night" and everyone is asked to bring pennies according to his age, for the expenses of the meeting. "The Story of the Angels" will be told by the evangelist Friday afternoon.

Evolution of every kind and brand was ruled out of the thinking man by Dr. Biederwolf Wednesday afternoon, to a small crowd who were interested in his subject, "Christian Evolution." The Bible was held up as the only story of the creation to hold faith in.

Sunday Schools of Xenia are planning a union rally day for next Sunday afternoon. Each Sunday School will meet in the various churches at 2 o'clock and march in a body to the First M. E. Church, for a service at 2:30, when Mr. Grimes and Mr. Kelly will lead in song. Dr. Biederwolf will preach. All the young people of the country are invited. Everyone is welcome, seats to be reserved especially for Sunday School pupils.

As We Grow Older

Proper Kidney Action Is More Than Ever Important.

As we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. This tends to make one tired and aching, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions. Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

GERMAN PLANE ACE ESCAPES IN CRASH

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—Herr Udet, famous German war ace, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury today when the motor of a giant Rohrbach hydroplane he was testing in Copenhagen Sound failed. The plane fell three thousand meters, but Udet escaped uninjured.

The plane, which had been christened "Robbe," was being primed for a trans-Atlantic flight, probably to be made next year. According to the officials of the Rohrbach company, the plane was not damaged by the crash.

COLUMBUS FACING THEATER STRIKE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29.—Columbus theaters faced the possibility of a strike of union musicians, stagehands and electricians today, as the result of an ultimatum delivered by the musicians' union to the two largest vaudeville theaters, setting October 9, at midnight as the last date upon which the union men will work unless a satisfactory settlement of wage scale controversy is reached meanwhile. The musicians, according to the theater managers, ask an increase for $55 to $70 per week, but have abandoned a demand for additional men in the orchestra pits. Negotiations are continuing, and managers of the theaters expressed the hope a settlement will be reached.

ALIMONY SOUGHT BY WIFE; NOTE CASES WON BY PLAINTIFF

Alimony is asked in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Zora Richards against Oscar L. Richards. They were married September 21, 1918, at Xenia, and have two children, Helen, 9, and Max, 6. Plaintiff charges that on September 19, 1927, she was struck and beaten about the face by her husband, causing her great pain, and on account of the assault, still suffers from pain about the head and neck. On the same occasion, the defendant also kicked her, bruising the flesh, and is guilty of extreme cruelty, it is alleged. Plaintiff claims the defendant abandoned her without cause and there is a separation in consequence of the ill treatment and abuse of the defendant. The couple possess household goods, the petition sets forth. Plaintiff seeks temporary alimony and expenses during the pendency of the suit, and asks for reasonable alimony and an allowance for the support of the children. She also requests to be decreed the household goods.

Here's Real Relief From Neuritis

In 24 to 48 Hours Pains Are Often Relieved and You Get Rest and Comfort Again.

Torturing pains—the kind that pierce and burn and never seem to let up—that rob a man of his sleep—that make him just a bag of nerves and all worn out.

These are the pains that dope and coal tar products can only partially relieve.

The safest and most efficient way to get rid of the persistent, nerve-racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenburh Special Formula No. 2. Be sure you get No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced if not almost banished those severe, torturing pains that have caused you so many sleepless nights. Continue for two or three days more or until you are satisfied with results. It doesn't matter how long you may have suffered or whether your Neuritis is in the shoulder, arm, neck or legs. Allenburh Special Formula No. 2 should give you speedy relief. Sayre's Drug Store or any good druggist will be glad to supply you. —Adv.

The brunt of the day's work comes in the morning

Yet, too often, we come ill-prepared for those high-pressure hours

Crowded into the four morning hours is 70% of the world's work, new figures show. At schools and colleges, 70% of the hardest classes are before luncheon. Workers and students can't afford to be listless or draggy in the morning!

But too often, people don't realize the need of a proper breakfast. They feel energetic after a good sleep—so they think a hurried badly-chosen breakfast doesn't matter. Soon they feel tired, draggy, dull—

Business heads and educators say that high-pressure mornings demand better preparation. They urge better breakfasts—breakfasts that "stand by."

For morning vigor that lasts, authorities advise Quick Mother Oats. Oatmeal supplies energy, protein needed for tissue repair, minerals and vitamins that maintain health—and roughage! It is the best-balanced of all the cereals.

Long a favorite for its rich flavor, Quick Mother's Oats is therefore now the choice of thousands who want to speed up their mornings.

Start tomorrow to give your family this hot nourishing breakfast. Your grocer has Mother's Oats is therefore now the choice of always known, and the quick-cooking kind, cooks faster than toast.

The Theater

Ernest Glendinning, leading man for the Wright Players at the Victory Theater, Dayton, during the summer season, has been engaged to head the winter stock season which opens Monday evening, October 17.

The news will be welcomed by Xenia patrons of the Victory, who appreciated Glendinning's work during the summer in a variety of roles.

You can go to the movies on credit. That is, you may go to some movies and pay next week or the end of the month or whenever the pocketbook is fatter. The credit system of permitting patrons to purchase strips of tickets and having the cost charged for future payment, heretofore unthinkable in the realm of theaters, is being introduced and profitably too, by some of the smaller houses in several cities.

The idea was introduced when competition became keen and those houses which tried the stunt declared it to be a business builder. Credit coupons are issued, payable weekly or semi-monthly. Success of the scheme lies in the fact that families caught short of ready cash would forego the cinema until their finances were in better shape. Now they can see the shows whenever they wish and pay when they get it.

A survey shows that a large percentage of movie matinee patrons are high school students. Director Albert Rogell gathered a flock of 6,000 sheep which will appear in some of the scenes of "The Shepherd of the Hills." Several sequences of D. W. Griffith's "The Drums of Love" will be shot in color.

SALLY'S SALLIES

What this country really needs is powder that won't come off on a married man's coat sleeve.

London has welcomed to its stage, Miss Edna Bellonini, Anglo-Latin beauty, who has risen to stardom within a year. It is said that she has turned down 500 proposals of marriage because she insists "love shall be the motivating force that will drive her to the altar."

and distinctive interpretation. The balance of the cast is being selected by W. H. Wright, owner of the various companies that bear his name.

With an advance sale of $31,780 setting new records for moving picture showings on Broadway, the producers of the Paramount war aviation spectacle, "Wings," declare that they have the greatest road show film attraction in movie history. They expect at an early date to open extended showings in Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston.

LADY CALLED FATE

BY JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a photograph of a girl which had been Morton's. The girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her ambassador, Ramon, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. Moore meets the girl at the church, also. Clench, whom she dislikes. He tells her he is not Morton, whom she has been expecting. All start for the ranch, where they are to meet Rodriguez and Ruth's uncle.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

At the honk of the motor horn the iron-barred gates of mesquite wood swung inward, revealing a covered passageway some fourteen feet deep through the center of the first tier of buildings, which extended the width of the enclosure. Two, thin, weatherbeaten old Chinamen, clinging like animated gargoyles to either gate, held them open and jerked bows and nods as the car rolled past. "Retainers of the castle," commented John with satisfaction.

Ruth laughed. "You are easily satisfied. They are Wong and Wing, the cook and gardener."

"Walls fourteen feet thick," went on John, disdaining her remark. "These are not just walls. They are rooms. The house is built in horizontal section. These are the storage rooms for grain and general supplies down here."

"Inside the walls," said John, "we find a paved courtyard. In one corner a forge for the armorer."

"The blacksmith!" scoffed Ruth. "He may shoe the steeds for the lord of the castle," John conceded, "but I insist that he tinkers with armor most of the time."

"He tinkers with the Ford—when we have one."

John Moore frowned at that. "Leave the Fords out of this," he said.

"That is easy just now. We haven't any."

"Good!" exclaimed John. "We are glad you are glad," retorted the girl a little drily.

John remembered that she had spoken of her uncle's financial straits. If the owner of an estate like this was without a machine while living so far from a railroad, he must be in straits, indeed.

The car had stopped at the far end of the courtyard before the gates set in the second tier of buildings.

"Here," began John again, as he held open the turreted door for the girl to alight. "We see—"

"I'll save your imagination!" laughed Ruth as she stepped to the ground. "Though you seem to have plenty to waste! The Chinamen and the maize live in this left wing. In the right are our dining room and kitchen, living room, my uncle's office and several bedrooms in the towers above us. Ahead of us—I will show you. Come."

"I told you this was a fairy story," he said.

"I am coming," said John, close beside her and speaking very low. "Do not make any mistake about that."

"Oh," interrupted the girl hurriedly. "I meant—look—look at our garden!"

"All right," said John. "I'll look—"

High afternoon sunlight blazing down on flower beds of gorgeous color, scarlet, yellow and blue; sunlight quivering through the lacy green of the pepper trees, sunlight gliding on the steep brick retaining walls of the terraces which mounted the hill in three wide levels to the third tier of buildings—a brick structure with a battlement and four big towers.

"Do you like it?" asked the girl.

"Like it?" John drew a deep breath and faced her with his verdict. "I told you this was a fairy story," he said.

There was a step on the gravel walk beside them.

"It sure is some place," said Clench. With an expression of determined friendliness he stepped into line beside Ruth. He had made up his mind to let by-gones be by-gones and take a fresh running start with this New York.

It would be very uncomfortable if he told Rodriguez that he, Clench, had tried to flirt a little with Ruth Henshaw in Tubutama. She would not tell. Anyone with half an eye could see that she loathed Rodriguez; she would not tell him anything.

He had banked on that when he walked with her in the plaza. But if this man Morton was still riled up he might.

Of course, with Morton making such a dead set at the girl, Rodriguez might overlook little slips by his friends. He might—but you never could count on anything like that with Rodriguez; and it was a surer bet that what he didn't know wouldn't anger him. A chill thought of Rodriguez's anger gave him courage to attempt strenuousness with Morton.

"It sure is some place," he repeated genially. "You ought to step up and see the swimming pool on the top terrace. Some pool. And some view from there, I'll say. Never'd look to find a garden like this hidden behind these old 'dome walls, would you?"

"I'd like to see all of it," said John to the girl.

"You must see my uncle first." "Your uncle ain't here, Miss Henshaw," put in Clench. "Wong says he and Rodriguez rode down to the lower ranch. They'll be back about supper time. I'll be pleased to show Mr. Morton—"

John Moore turned and stared at Clench. "When you are speaking of me," he said deliberately, "you can remember that my name is Moore."

Clench blinked.

"Not—Morton," added John.

"Oh!" exclaimed Clench. "I get you!"

"You see," said Ruth Henshaw, addressing Clench in turn. "It was my mistake in the first place. I shouldn't have called him 'Morton' to you."

"Oh, that's all right," Clench assured her. "You didn't give nothing away. I knew his name, anyway. But 'Moore' is all right with me. And as I was saying, I'll be glad to show him round the place."

Ruth looked at John with eyes in which little slanting derisiveness hid themselves behind a veil of polite regretfulness. This was just the opportunity she had been waiting for; this would do beautifully. "I am sorry I cannot show you the garden," she told him, "but I shall be very busy until dinner time. Mr. Clench knows the way about. And Wong—where is he?"

"Here I am, Missy. What you want you no got?" The thin old Chinaman shuffled up to her from the gate and stood nodding like a mandarin doll.

"Get Mr. Moore's bag from the car, Wong, and show him up to his room."

"Alee right!"

Ruth turned again to John and Clench, this time including them both in a little formal bow of leave taking. "You will excuse me?"

"Certainly, mam," said Clench. "Hasta luego, senorita," said John. There were a lot of other things he might have said if they had been alone. But there was Clench.

The two men watched her walk quickly down a flower bordered path and disappear inside the house.

"Her uncle and her live down here," Clench said. "The house on the hill they use for guests mostly."

John Moore gave him no heed. He was wondering if Ruth Henshaw actually believed she could exile him to the society of Clench for the whole afternoon with a mere nod of her head? He showed her—

"Come on! Come on! What you waitin' for you no got?" shrilled Wong.

"Right. Let's go."

No Difference of Opinion When Supremacy is so Outstanding

In its repertoire of brilliant abilities, the New Hudson Super-Six asserts its supremacy in vivid performance facts that stand free and clear of opinion or debate.

Here is a new power in motordom—totally different in development and expression—totally new in range and efficiency—the smooth and mighty power of the steam engine delivered with silky ease and vivacity.

The basis of this great Hudson capacity is a new companion invention to the Super-Six principle which turns waste heat to power. Together they combine the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge.

In the new Hudson motor, spark knock heretofore characteristic of the high-compression motor is eliminated, and ordinary gasoline gives the performance results sought through special and higher-priced fuels.

It is receiving the greatest public reception in Hudson history, because in all ways it is the greatest Hudson Super-Six ever built.

Answers to Correspondents COLDS AND DIET

"I have been bothered with colds and catarrh. What is the best diet to counteract these? I noticed benefit from orange juice fast. E."

There is no particular diet for colds and catarrh, E., other than the balanced diet. And that means one that has all of the elements in proper proportions for proper functioning. It has been proved by animal experimentation, and clinically, that a wrong diet, especially one deficient in vitamins, lowers the resistance of all of the tissues of the body, and the mucous membranes are of course included. (It must be remembered that the other factors of the diet are just as important as the vitamins.)

The fact that you benefitted by an orange juice diet might indicate that you had been having a diet deficient in vitamins, for orange juice is especially high in vitamin B, the anti-neuritic vitamin. Or, it may be possible that you've been overeating.

There are other factors that you have to consider in chronic colds and catarrh—possible malformations in the nose, lack of fresh air, irritating vapors (too much smoking, for instance), etc.

I suggest you have not only a physical examination, but a special examination of your nose and throat. We have an article which has something on colds, catarrh, hay fever, etc., which may help you. Enclose fully self-addressed stamped envelope with your request. (Ask also for our article on Balanced Diet.)

Orange Juice Hard on the Kidneys?

E. continues: "Since my orange juice fast, I've had a great deal of trouble with my back. Is orange juice hard on the kidneys? I do not drink coffee as a rule; however, I do love it once in a while. Do you consider it detrimental to the kidneys if used only occasionally?"

No orange juice is not hard upon the kidneys, nor anything else, E., and it can be taken freely—except, possibly, in very irritable stomachs, when fruit acids are not received well for a while. Orange juice, while acid to the taste, leaves a final alkaline reaction in the body, and as the tissue fluids and blood are normally faintly alkaline, a preponderance of the alkaline foods should be eaten. (The alkaline foods are: fruits, with the exception of prunes, plums and cranberries; vegetables except rhubarb and sorrel, and milk.)

It's an old idea, hard to eradicate, that a pain in the back means something wrong with the kidneys. A pain in the back is practically never due to kidney diseases. Because backache is a very common symptom, every quack who has something to sell exploits this falsehood.

Coffee apparently is not harmful to the majority. If taken in moderation, although a cup of strong coffee contains two to four grains of caffeine. (Caffeine is a stimulant and a medical dose is two grains.)

Coffee and tea do undoubtedly cause insomnia frequently, and many are improved by their elimination. There are two or three brands of decaffeinated coffee on the market. Personally, I don't notice the difference in the taste.

As I told you before, you should have a thorough physical examination.

If you are interested in the subject, we have an article on the diet in kidney inflammation. Send only a self-addressed, stamped envelope with request.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S. which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin; makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

EIGHT ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF SHOWING PRIZE FIGHT MOVIE

Employees Of Frisco Theater Held For Law Violation

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—With the arrest of eight persons on the staff of a local theater which was showing motion pictures of the Tunney-Dempsey fight, the United States government today prepared to press charges in what it claims is a conspiracy to violate the law prohibiting interstate transportation and showing of prize fight films.

A warrant has been issued in San Francisco for the arrest of Tex Rickard, promoter of the fight. Government agents were also investigating to determine whether Tunney and Dempsey were financially interested in the pictures. If they are, the agents said, they will be arrested and tried.

For the first time since the anti-prize fight pictures statute was enacted, defendants in such a case are facing a felony charge rather than one of misdemeanor. In the event of conviction, the defendants are open to a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine in addition to two years in prison.

The manager of the theater, W. P. Cullen, in which the pictures were being shown, and the operator, Tom Merritt, were required to post bonds of $500. The other employees were released on their own recognizance.

MURDER SUSPECT AT LARGE MAY RECOVER BACK TAXES

POULTRY FARMER IS OBJECT OF SEARCH; KLAN BURNS CROSS

Counsel For Jersey Suspect May Face Charges Himself

SOUTH VINELAND, N. J., Sept. 29.—While detectives were searching in Baltimore for Willis Beach, 52-year-old poultry farmer wanted in connection with the murder of Dr. William Lillendahl, 72, retired physician, a spectacular demonstration was staged early today in front of the home of Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, the slain man's widow, held under guard as a material witness in her husband's shooting.

Shortly after three o'clock this morning, five unidentified men drove up to the Lillendahl home here, and placed a five-foot wooden cross on the lawn. The cross was lit, and the bright light of the blaze shone into the darkened windows of the house. Mrs. Lillendahl, who was in bed, switched on a light in her bedroom, took a brief look at the fiery cross, and then extinguished the light.

The state trooper who was assigned last night to guard the home of Mrs. Lillendahl, who is ostensibly free under $25,000 bond as a material witness in the case, did not bother the five men. They drove up the driveway, silently lifted the cross from the back of the car and inserted it in the soft earth. When a torch had been applied, and the cross blazing fiercely, they climbed back into the car and drove off.

The Klan is known to have been active for some months past in this section of New Jersey, but as far as is known, no demonstrations have been staged in South Vineland.

"One missing link," according to Prosecutor Louis Repetto, prevents him from presenting the case to the grand jury today. The prosecutor stated he expected to have his chain of evidence completed shortly, however, and would ask the grand jury for indictments as soon as possible.

Beach, meanwhile, had successfully eluded his pursuers. The white-haired poultry farmer, who has admitted carrying on a clandestine correspondence with Mrs. Lillendahl, left his home early Tuesday morning. He was under $5,000 bond as a material witness, but a warrant is now out charging him with "aiding and abetting" the murder.

Hedges, Beach's attorney, continued his assertions today that he will produce his client only when ordered to do so by a court of law, or if an indictment is returned against him. Assistant Prosecutor S. Cameron Hinkle, although refusing to say whether any action would be taken against Hedges, told newspapermen that "obstructing justice is a misdemeanor in this state, punishable by a $1,000 fine or three years in jail" and inferred that Hedges was laying himself open to prosecution on this score.

SCHOOL HEAD GOES ON TRIAL IN CHICAGO CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Superintendent of schools William McAndrew today went on trial on charges of insubordination before the Chicago Board of Education.

McAndrew is charged with 283 teacher refused to accept a new trial judgment on the board had ordered them reassigned as teachers. Their places as clerks were also ordered filled with civil service clerks.

The case is believed to be the first of its kind in the history of the county.

J. Lewis Coath, president of the board, was scheduled to preside at the trial. Hearings may last four days.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT INFLUENCED JURY CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 29.—The jury which awarded $3,875 damages to Mrs. Lilly Mack, 23, against Police Sergeant Frank Rolfs, who arrested her and her husband for "spooning" in an automobile, was "influenced by public sentiment."

This was the opinion of Assistant Law Director Walter Ross who today filed a motion for a new trial on behalf of the policeman. Such a judgment will tend to make officers of the law afraid to make arrests, Ross said.

AUTO HITS CHILD YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 29.—John Newbauer, 12, today was in a local hospital, believed to have a fractured skull after being struck by an automobile which skidded to the curb where he was standing. The car did not stop.

NAMES DOG AS HOME WRECKER

A dog has become the chief figure in a divorce suit at Kansas City, Mo., that unfolds the story of a man's fondness for a pet, which his wife complains, broke up their home. In her divorce petition, Mrs. Mary Haglage charges her husband, Walter, humiliated her before friends by leaving her in the family motor car, while riding with friends, to frolic with the dog. Above, Mrs. Haglage, upper right, the husband, lower left, the dog.

DAYTON WOMAN KILLS HUSBAND; SHOOTING FOLLOWS ARGUMENT

DAYTON, O., Sept. 29.—Mrs. Charlotte Grice, 28, was to be arraigned on a charge of murder in Municipal Court here today, following the death of her husband, Raymond Grice, who was shot and killed shortly after midnight in the Grice home.

Mrs. Grice, according to police, admits having fired the fatal shot but declared she only shot to frighten her husband. Harley Roberts and Mrs. Edward Myers, who are said to have been in the house at the time of the tragedy, are being held by police as material witnesses.

The shooting, according to police reports, culminated an argument of several hours. Grice attempted to choke his wife, police were told. The electric lights were switched out, a shot was fired. Roberts told police he switched the lights on and saw Grice lying on the floor near the bathroom door. The bullet had struck him in the forehead. Police are holding a Spanish pistol found on the floor, as evidence.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS MAY ACT TO ENDORSE GOVERNOR SMITH

Tammany And Up-State Supporters Gather At Albany—Will Put "Soft Pedal" On Wet Activities

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Democratic state convention which gets under way here this afternoon, may take formal action to endorse Governor Alfred E. Smith as the next Democratic presidential candidate.

Although New York state affairs constituted the scheduled business of the convention, the governor's presidential chances was the sole topic of discussion among party leaders. The leaders predicted that the convention would be turned into a "love feast" for the governor. And it was expected that a typical "Al Smith" demonstration would be staged by the delegates.

Governor Smith's up-state supporters and Tammany leaders are comparing notes for the first time since William G. McAdoo, hitherto the New York governor's chief rival for the Democratic nomination, announced his withdrawal from the race. Governor Smith's keynote speech was eagerly awaited.

The leaders were somewhat perturbed at the expressed intention of Assemblyman Louis H. Cuvillier of New York City, to take the floor with a proposal to call a national constitutional convention for the purpose of accomplishing repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The leaders desired to put the soft pedal on this subject in order to avoid embarrassing Governor Smith.

The Tammany leaders, headed by George W. Olvany, are the guests of the Governor at the executive mansion. Conferences were held last night and this morning.

CHILD VICTIM OF COPPERHEAD SNAKE POMEROY, O., Sept. 29.—Thirteen-year-old Alma Young, Bashan, near here, is in a critical condition in a hospital here today from the poisonous effects of a snake bite. The child was bitten on the ankle by a copperhead and was taken fifteen miles before medical aid could be found.

INTERNAL REVENUE BUREAU SAYS FRAUD OPENS PROSECUTION

Time Clause Does Not Protect In Cases Of False Returns

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—Without time limitation the government may take steps to recover back taxes, wherever it is discovered that fraud was involved in the preparation of returns, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today.

A. W. Gregg, solicitor of the bureau, held that the former requirement that fraud must be discovered within three years of filing of the return is not applicable and that "it is proper for the tax to be assessed at any time after the fraud is discovered."

That many millions of dollars are due the government from persons who made fraudulent tax returns was opinion of treasury officials. Under the new decision it was anticipated that a renewed effort will be made to get this money into government vaults.

The decision resulted from a case brought before the bureau involving a taxpayer who filed delinquent returns for 1916, 1917 and 1918. More than five years after filing of the returns a field investigation disclosed that the income shown was grossly underestimated and it appeared from evidence that the understatement was willful and for the purpose of evading tax.

After a study of the various tax laws, according to the decision, it was shown that the three-year law had been nullified by subsequent acts. Orders were issued to proceed against the delinquent taxpayer under the fraud clause.

Under the law, except in the case of false returns, the commission of internal revenue is required to make final determination of the amount due within five years of the filing of the return. Following that period taxes are held to be settled finally.

Many tax returns of bootleggers, smugglers, gamblers and others are said to be under study by the treasury, involving large sums of money due the government. Gains accruing from unlawful occupations are held taxable although losses resulting from similar business cannot be deducted for the purpose of computing taxable income.

ASKS IMMEDIATE TRIAL FOR SLAYER

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—The state today was prepared to ask for the immediate trial here of Harry J. "Lefty" Lewis, in connection with the slaying of Max Braverman, junk dealer.

Efforts will also be made to establish a connection between the slaying of Braverman and the bomb explosion which destroyed part of the home of Louis Newman, one of the principal witnesses for the state.

Braverman was attending a meeting of junk dealers who had gathered in protest against joining a union organization said to have been promoted by Lewis and his colleagues, when he was shot.

IN GERMANY? HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 29.—Bootleggers are dealt with harshly in this country when they are convicted.

Seventeen members of a huge German "bootleg" trust were sentenced by a Hamburg court today to $550,000 fine and eighteen months in jail for smuggling 1700 gallons of alcohol into Germany from Holland.

AMERICAN MUST SERVE OUT HIS FOREIGN LEGION ENLISTMENT PARIS, Sept. 29.—The return to the United States of Bennett J. Doty, young American war veteran whose enlistment in the French Foreign Legion, his desertion from that famous organization, his subsequent court martial and sentence to prison, and most recently his pardon by the French government, have stirred the people of both the United States and France, apparently is a long way off.

Doty today was enroute from Marseilles to Midi Bel Abbes, Algeria, to report for duty with the First Regiment of the Foreign Legion to serve out the remainder of his enlistment, according to an announcement by the Ministry of War.

Doty left Marseilles yesterday at two o'clock aboard the steamer Governor General Farrere enroute to Oran.

Barring a later decision by Minister of War Painleve, Doty will serve the full five years of his enlistment, from which the time prior to his desertion, and the time he spent in prison, will be deducted.

Damages Denied

"Any woman who submits herself to a permanent waving operation voluntarily assumes the risk of having her scalp burned and is not entitled to damages." So held a jury in the case of Mrs. Vina Murphy of Sioux City, Ia., above, in her suit for $2,000 against a beauty shop.

BRITISH LANDED TO PROTECT MISSION FROM CHINESE FIRE

Cantonese War Ship Opens Fire On City Of Swatow

LONDON, Sept. 29.—A Cantonese warship has opened fire on the city of Swatow, necessitating the landing of British troops to protect an English mission there, according to dispatches from Hong Kong today.

The Cantonese vessel opened fire Wednesday, later landing one hundred troops which were scattered by rifle fire from the peasant army which has occupied Swatow.

The British warships Bluebell and Sirdar were struck by bullets during the exchange of shots, and a party was immediately despatched from the Bluebell to protect the British mission.

Desultory firing between the Chinese factions is continuing. The American cruiser Asheville is anchored in the river off Swatow to protect American lives and property, the Navy Department at Washington has been informed by an official dispatch which described the condition there as "chaotic."

KRESGE BOY FALLS FROM HIGH CLIFF

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29.—Eight-year-old Jimmy Kresge, son of S. L. Kresge, manager of the Cleveland chain of Kresge five and ten cent stores, today was convalescing in a local hospital from a fifty-five foot fall which he suffered Sunday.

Details of the accident, in which Jimmy sustained a compound fracture of the left leg, were related by his parents today. He and two companions were playing at the top of a cliff near the lake front. In attempting to push a railroad tie to the brim Jimmy slipped and tumbled over the edge.

"I shut my eyes and counted up to five on the way down," the boy told his parents, "and then I thought I was going to be killed."

However, Jimmy made his landing in soft mud. A few feet to the left he would have hit a bed of rock. He managed to crawl thirty feet and the two other boys, after a half hour of work, pulled him to the top of the bank. At the hospital today he was reported to be recovering rapidly.

PLAN NO ACTION IN MAGRUDER DISPUTE WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The Magruder incident is closed.

Following a conference with Rear Admiral T. P. Magruder, Secretary of Navy Wilbur announced that no punitive action would be taken against the admiral.

Magruder aroused the ire of his naval superiors by writing a magazine article describing the navy as overorganized and uneconomic.

Wilbur said the article contained many misstatements which would have been corrected had Magruder submitted the article to him in advance of publication. Magruder retorted that his charges were fundamentally correct. He said, in effect that the navy was getting but sixty five cents of value out of every dollar expended.

CLEMENCEAU IS 87; REFUSES TO TALK PARIS, Sept. 29.—"I am too young to express opinions, but I am willing to listen to anything you have to tell me," M. Georges Clemenceau, France's war-time premier, said to this interviewer who sought an expression of the aged statesman's feeling as he entered his eighty-seventh year today.

M. Clemenceau received scores of friends and well-wishers in the home of a friend here where he is staying. He told one interviewer that he planned to return by automobile to his home at Vendee, St. Vincent Sur-Jard next Monday or Tuesday, where he will probably remain several weeks.

HEXAMER NAMED CANTON, O., Sept. 29.—Earl W. Hexamer, former safety director, has been appointed chief of police here to succeed John "Jiggs" Wise, who was killed in an automobile accident near Lima, last week. Hexamer had not yet accepted the appointment at noon today.

SUIT BY DISTRICT ATTORNEY SEEING PAYMENT OF FEES

Having E. Mau, Cincinnati, United States district attorney, has filed suit against J. J. Brownell, Beaver Creek Twp., for $4,500, claiming the amount is the balance due for fees rendered the defendant, the said legal advice and personal trial, made to New York and Miami, Fla., in the interests of his client.

Asserting that he has made frequent demands for his fee, Mau sets forth the defendant is indebted to him for $500 for services and legal advice rendered from December 1, 1925 to March 1, 1927.

The attorney also places his legal fee at $5,000 for services and personal trips made to New York and Miami, Fla., and conferences and legal advice in obtaining the settlement of real estate at both cities from March 2, 1927 to July 1, 1927.

His expense attached to the New York and Miami trips, covering hotel, transportation and other incidental expense, is placed at $600.

Of the total sum, $5,100, the defendant has paid $1,600, leaving a balance of $4,500 due, the petition declares. Mattern, Brumbaugh and Mattern are attorneys for the plaintiff.

DIVORCES ASKED

After thirty-two years of married life, J. W. Shoemaker has filed suit for divorce from Anna Shoemaker in Common Pleas Court, charging she has continually nagged and annoyed him until it is "absolutely impossible" to live longer with her. The action is based on charges of extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. They were married April 23, 1895.

Divorce is also sought in a suit filed by Ollie Judy against Lee Judy, charging gross neglect of duty. They were married in January, 1926.

INJUNCTION SUIT

A temporary restraining order has been allowed in Common Pleas Court in an injunction suit filed by R. M. Martz against Frank McHenry.

Martz declares he owns a farm of about 112 acres in Sugar Creek Twp., and that the defendant, who has been a tenant on the farm for the last three or four years, is surrendering the lease and contemplating leaving the farm in the fall of 1927, although his lease does not expire until March 1, 1928.

Plaintiff asserts there is now a field of twenty acres of growing corn on the farm and that it was his intention, as landlord, to have the corn cut and shocked so the field could be put in wheat in the fall of 1927. It is charged the tenant refuses to cut the corn and put out the wheat crop and is now engaged with a corn binder in cutting corn on another farm.

Defendant, in violation of the terms of his lease, is accused of turning out fifty or fifty-five head of hogs on the twenty-acre corn field, and plaintiff declares the result will be a great quantity of corn wasted, depriving the owner of having the corn cut or a crop this fall.

Plaintiff seeks a permanent injunction, enjoining the tenant from placing hogs in the field. Defendant is charged with being financially irresponsible. Marcus Shoup is plaintiff's attorney.

ALIMONY GRANTED

On application of the plaintiff, Burn R. Shidaker, defendant in a suit filed by Anna Shidaker in Common Pleas Court, has been ordered by the court to pay $10 per week as alimony in addition to $10 now being paid by the defendant toward the support of their child. First payment is to be made Oct. 1 and equal payments on every Saturday until further order of the court.

REPORTED THEFT OF AUTO REVEALS CASE RESULT OF MISTAKE

PICNIC DINNER ON COUNTY DAY PLANS

Reported theft of a Chevrolet coach from J. M. Christy, Jamestown Wednesday morning, from its parking place on E. Main St., opposite the south door of the Court House, was attributed to a mistake, marking the second time in the past two weeks a case of this nature has been called to the attention of authorities.

Christy's car had been parked beside a similar auto, owned by Mose Cramer, Dayton, of The American Loan and Realty Co. Agency, Steele Building.

An employee of Cramer, unable to distinguish the difference, drove away in Christy's machine. Later when Christy returned and took his seat in the parked Chevrolet, he immediately discovered he was in the wrong car as he had left his ignition key in the lock of his own machine.

He reported the apparent theft to police and Deputy Sheriff George Sugden. Sugden obtained the license number of the parked Chevrolet, and convinced a mistake had been made, notified the Dayton license bureau. He was informed the license had been issued to Cramer.

Sugden notified Cramer of the mistake made and the cars were exchanged.

Welsbach Gas Heaters

Will give you year 'round comfort at little cost. Their comforting warmth is always ready; their constant trouble-free service is gratefully appreciated; their volume of heat fills every room with friendliness.

Welsbach Heaters Have Many Noteworthy Features

SPECIAL BURNER—The special Welsbach burner has been designed to produce the greatest amount of heat from the gas consumed. It generates steady, intense cones of flame within the glowers which pour into the room an amazing volume of radiant warmth.

GLOWERS—Welsbach glowers are made of clay, which, though brittle, can withstand the most intense heat. Because the header holds the glowers in place, they cannot possibly fall out and break, though each can easily be removed.

CHOKE—A choke, like the choke on your automobile, enables you to enrich the mixture when lighting the heater.

HEADER—This exclusive Welsbach feature is placed above the glowers. It improves combustion and enables each glower to be lighted evenly from bottom to top.

BURNER CAPS—Welsbach burner caps are equipped with fire clay tops, which do not corrode, rust or clog. This means there is no possibility of gas stoppage, no odor, no trouble. Assures full heating value at all times.

FLUE CONNECTION—Because of the special design of Welsbach Heaters, a flue connection of the most approved type can be made. A vent at the back of the heater is provided for this purpose.

MOONLIGHT RAINBOW
DENVER, Sept. 26.—Residents of Castle Rock, south of here, marveled recently at a lunar phenomena described by them as a "moonlight rainbow." The lunar halo, they declared, appeared in the west against the shadowy background of the mountain range just as full moon rose in the east. Simultaneously a low hanging cloud cast a silvery mist over the entire town. Residents said the rainbow colorings were clearly distinguishable, the bow of a silvery appearance, with a deep red on the lower band, fading into blue, green, and the orange.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. MARY WATT CHERRY, PIONEER RESIDENT

Mrs. Mary Watt Cherry, 82, widow of David Cherry and pioneer Greene County resident, passed away at her home, 209 W. Market St., Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Death was the result of infirmities of age. She had been bedfast a year and a half, following a broken hip received in a fall at her home.

Mrs. Cherry would have reached her eighty-third birthday next April 18. She was born near Bainbridge, O., the daughter of William and Sarah Carruthers Watt. Her father moved to the farm, now occupied by her son, Houston H. Cherry, on the Federal Pike, when she was seven years of age and she has spent the remainder of her life in Greene County.

Mrs. Cherry lived on the home- stead farm until twenty-four years ago when the family moved to this city. Mr. Cherry preceded his wife in death several years.

Surviving are four children, Mrs. Fred Elliott, Greensburg, Ind., W. J. Cherry, Federal Pike, Houston H. Cherry, Xenia, and D. W. Cherry, Xenia. Three brothers, James B. Watt, and D. B. Watt, both of Xenia and Robert Watt, of Cedarville, and one sister, Mrs. Agnes Nash, near Xenia, survive, with five grandchildren.

Mrs. Cherry became affiliated with the Presbyterian Church in girlhood but at the time of her marriage joined the First U. P. Church, in which she was an active member. She was a charter member of the Woman's Missionary Society of the latter church.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete and will be announced later.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs, and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles. We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE. —Adv.

BIBLE THOUGHT

STRIKING CONTRASTS:—My days are like a shadow that declineth; and I am withered like grass. But Thou, O Lord, shalt endure for ever. Psalm 102:11, 12.

THE HOPE OF LOAFERS

Much is said about the effort to spread the doctrines of communism about the country, but this movement does not seem to be making any progress. The American people do not take kindly to the idea of the equal division of property.

They know too well that under such a plan the loafers would loaf still more. People would have no incentive to show ambition and intelligence and energy and enterprise. The production of the necessities of life would be reduced to a small fraction of what it now is.

The smart talkers would get the influential positions and have things somewhat as they wanted, while the quiet and efficient doers would fare very poorly. The country would be plunged into poverty and everyone would be much worse off. A country where the masses of the people can have so much comfort, if they display industry and thrift, will find few converts to this dreamy idea.

REASON FOR GREEN

A pertinent commentary on state-owned-and-operated business comes from the Panama Canal Zone, where the government finds it necessary to dye all its gasoline green to prevent its theft by officials and hangers-on.

The one unanswerable arraignment of the state in business is the lack of interest, responsible control. Some officers are honest; but the tendency is to be more interested in short hours or politics than in the job. With so little responsible supervision, political turnover every few years, and political loyalty the real test for compatibility, service is too frequently submerged.

GETTING THINGS DONE

All that is needed to accomplish many gains and improvements in a town like this is favorable public sentiment. If you can convince a good number of people that a certain thing should be done and that it can be done, it becomes much easier to accomplish it.

When the sentiment of the people is behind a change, when people are hard talking in favor of it, then it gets an impetus behind it that promotes action. Everyone who merely talks in favor of a needed public improvement helps get it done.

MAKES PROPERTY MORE VALUABLE

If you want your job, your real estate, or your business to be more valuable, you should make it so by promoting home town prosperity through the policy of buying at home.

You can't teach pupils in school without winning their attention, and you can't thoroughly inform people of the merit of merchandise without similarly attracting their attention by advertising.

The business of begging is getting so profitable that the beggars will soon be provided with high-powered automobiles, so as to cover their routes more efficiently.

The Way of the World

THE WILL TO FLY

Not much use to talk about stopping hops across the sea. No use to talk about stopping man from trying anything. There will always be a few Lindberghs in the world. They will get what they want, whatever the danger. Lindbergh says hazardous flights should not be prevented, but they should be attempted only after careful study by experienced men. That's the viewpoint of men who have contributed most to progress. Leaders are not afraid of hazards but they are not foolhardy.

THE LITTLE STOMACH

The stomach is a small affair. Too bad we abuse it so thoughtlessly. Two Chicago university teachers did a little experimenting the other day. One swallowed a toy balloon attached to a stomach tube. The other blew up the balloon. In a few moments the man who had swallowed the balloon felt drowsy—as one does after heavy eating. Thus they proved that distention of the stomach is the cause of the feeling of uneasiness after a too hearty meal. The stomach is capable of astonishing distention. But it's unwise to take advantage of that fact. Freak dieting usually does more harm than good, but the fact remains that most people eat a great deal more food than they need.

PLENTY TO LEARN

When Michael Pupin, great scientist of Columbia university, disagrees with Sir Oliver Lodge about what the ether is or isn't, we might all be pardoned for feeling discouraged. If the wise men of the realm don't know any more about air and light and electricity and ether, what can the rest of us do about it? But that's not the way to look at it. If experts can't agree, there's a chance for all of us to do some thinking and perhaps contribute one fresh idea to our own times.

WHY HE'S POPULAR

Billy Sunday mixes baseball and prize fighting with preaching. He has a quick and ready opinion about everything that the great rank and file—the 95 per cent—are interested in. He puts his mental cookies on the lowest shelf where all can reach. The other day he came back with all his old-time fervor to Chicago. Five thousand packed into the church and 5,000 were turned away. Billy Sunday is a practical psychologist. The fact that he mixes religion with the everyday affairs of the people accounts for his popularity.

THE SIGN

The little things you do indicate your fitness or unfitness to do big things. The little things make you or betray you.

The Daybook

Of A

New Yorker

By
Burton Rascoe

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Down in one of the narrow old streets that spray out from the Municipal building in the city hall area there used to be a gentle public house where at lunch time the newspaper people in the district wrapped themselves around doughnuts and milk. Those who patronize the place now stand out for stronger fare, because the ope-time dairy lunch counter is a famous speakeasy. I dropped in there for the first time in five years, the other day, and what a shock it was to me!

The day's queerest bird was seen at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue the other afternoon. He wore burnside and a wandyke beard, a Tyrolean hat with a feather in it, blue drill breeches with brown golf socks and ordinary low brown shoes, a black shirt, and he carried a riding crop! Two women stopped in their progress to say excitedly: "What's he advertising? Well, he must be selling something." But the funny part of it was, he seemed blissfully unconscious of exciting attention, although a hundred conventionally dressed persons stopped every three minutes to examine him and exclaim.

Panorama of New York: Woman feeding one of the sad hack horses sugar in front of Grand Central station. . . . Six fat men crowded around one small table in the Madison avenue. Huyler's topping off afternoon tea with chocolate nut sundae all round. . . . Vaudeville actors at Loew's State theatre casually clattering up the sidewalk along Forty-fifth street, in full make-up and regalia, between turns. . . . The terrible spectacle of dead fish and raw vegetables in an unimaginative restaurateur's window, forbidding the sensitive to come in and have a snack. . . . William Hodge dozing cozily on the later afternoon train to Greenwich.

The record in easy separations, it seems to me, was reached in this city the other day when a woman sued her husband for separation and an allowance. . . . The woman charged that her husband told her, before they were married, that they would spend their honeymoon in Europe. Instead, following the ceremony, they went to the Pennsylvania hotel, where, when she learned that their honeymoon was to be spent there and not in Europe she fainted from the shock. Ever since, she claimed, she had been unwell from the shock of disappointment. A sympathetic judge granted her demands.

KELLYGRAMS
by Fred C. Kelly
Fooling Oneselves in Hours of Ease

Everyone would like to feel that even in his moments of reaction he is being useful, doing something that ought to be done, such as improving his health by golf or improving the landscape by the sowing of garden seeds. I long ago discovered that I can delude myself most completely as to my true motives by going fishing. Golf worried me, not only because the temptations to blasphemy and tell lies were too great for all of only moderately strong will bower. I determined to keep away from golf until its immoralities have been partly eliminated. I didn't like the game much, anyhow.

With fishing the situation is altogether different. I not only am able to maintain a fairly high moral plane, but can satisfy my demands of my thrifty Scotch ancestors who must have said to me, "Fred, old boy, be useful even at your play."

I have no difficulty in fooling myself into the firm conviction, when seated in a boat, casting a fly whenever I see a likely ripple, that I am turning my recreation to profit. One has to have food, doesn't he? If I can catch a fish and eat it, thus playing a joke on the man at the meat market, my day hasn't been in vain. My conscience freely admits that I haven't been wasting my time as mere golfers do.

And I frequently do succeed in actually catching a fish. Of course, I can't count on this every day. It isn't my fault if they're too suspicious to snap up the pretty flies I offer them. But by sticking at it, employing my simple little $80 rod and $15 reel to best advantage, eventually before the season is over, I am almost sure to land a toothsome little trout, easily worth 10 or 15 cents at any good fish market.

I occasionally go to a certain flossy hotel and order brook trout at $1.60 each, just to assist myself in reaffirming the conviction that my fishing is by no means time wasted. I not only get just as much ozone into my dear old system as if quietly seated on a veranda, but I'm doing my part toward filling the gay, gladsome horn of plenty and adding to the world's supply of food. Of course, if one's mind weren't painstakingly trained to self-deception, I might perceive the truth that my real motives are a combination of laziness and vanity. I do not on being totally idle, but one dislikes to admit such shiftlessness. It is natural to prefer mulling about in a boat, pretending to be occupied with something essential.

NEWS COMMENT AND VIEWS

"The Female of the Species—"

I Have Said in My Heart

By IDAH MCGLONE GIBSON
PEP

The saddest thing in this life is to know that your enthusiasm is dead.

You may call it many things, love, pep, interest, but after all, it is only when your capability of being enthusiastic is lost that the whole world loses its savor.

"I feel all dead inside of me," said a woman friend to me yesterday.

That was perhaps the most tragic thing I had heard a woman say in a very long time. Feeling that one is "all dead inside," that one, in the eyes of the world, is only going through the motions of living, is a sorry existence.

When one wakes in the morning and the day looms up before one as something to get through with as little hurt as possible; when one has to spur one's brain to get it even to the thinking point, one is beginning to "feel all dead inside."

When we lose interest in the game; when, after each task done, we laid aside perfunctorily, and we stop a minute to say, "Oh, what's the use," before we turn to the next task, then we may know that our enthusiasm must be doctored and made well again.

Unless this is done, all is but a ghost of that personal enjoyment which makes work worthy of doing.

Friendship wanes; loves grows cold. Those who have grown into our hearts seem unhappy bound and chafing against the bonds. When they pull away something breaks and we feel "all dead inside."

If we could only learn before this deadening sensation comes, that if we will center our enthusiasm about the things we create within ourselves, this will never be.

Memo: The cultivation of enthusiasm is very necessary to happiness.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent.

Seeing Things

Peter whistled to keep up his courage, and at first he did very well.

But it is no fun sitting all alone by oneself in the heart of a woods with night drawing on, and after a while Peter began to feel less cheerful.

"Wish someone would come along to keep a fellow company," said he. "Don't suppose it is very late in the afternoon, but why 'n here where the sun can't come, the night is going to be long; it will grow dark so early. Hello! Who's that over in the hollow at the bottom of the beech tree?"

Scarcely had Peter spoken when he found himself staring at an empty hole. Peter rubbed his eyes—then laughed.

"Nothing there at all," chuckled he. "Guess a shadow played a trick on me. Gee willikens! Surely someone is standing behind that tree trunk. Come on out, fellow; I see you!"

However, nobody stepped in sight at his call and, now that Peter stared more intently at the tree, he could see that it stood alone.

"Guess I'm seeing things," muttered he. "I must stop right now or there will be no end to it." "But, no, I am not imagining. There is a whiskered face over there, and another yonder, and still another peeping over that stone! Sh! What's that? It's someone coming. Must be leaves rustling!"

Peter jumped to his feet and cupped his ear to listen.

Pit-pit-pit! Pit-pit-pit! Not leaves at all, but footsteps, and coming straight toward him. He was alone, lost and unprotected. Who could he be? What could he do? Where should he go? He must hide, but how?

Nearer and nearer drew the big dogs under the porch.

"Ye-e-s, mum, good-day mum."

Household Hints

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

Cornmeal Waffles—One-fourth cup cornmeal, three-fourths cup boiling water, three-fourths cup sour milk, one and one-half cups flour, one and one-half tablespoons sugar, one-third teaspoon soda, three-fourths teaspoon salt, one egg, beaten separately, one tablespoon melted shortening. Drop meal into water as for mush, cook in double boiler 20 minutes. Add milk, then sift in dry ingredients together. Add beaten egg yolks and shortening, fold in stiffly-beaten whites. Cook two to two and one-half minutes on each side. This recipe may be varied by using one-half cup flour and one cup cold, cooked rice.

Frappe is a French word meaning whipped or beaten. It formerly meant a mixture containing whipped cream, but is now applied to any water ice frozen to a mush.

Suggestions
Spiced Plums

Four quarts of plums, three pounds of sugar, one pint of vinegar, one tablespoon ground cinnamon, one tablespoon ground cloves, one tablespoon allspice. Make a syrup from the vinegar, sugar and spices. Boil for five minutes. Prick each plum with a fork and pour the boiling syrup over the fruit. Let the whole stand three days. Then skim out the plums, boil down the syrup until quite thick, add the plums and heat to boiling. Seal in clean, hot jars.

Avoid Knots

Knots should always be avoided when darning, in consideration of the wearer. So just moisten the end of the darned cotton to prevent its continually slipping through. You will find a knot unnecessary.

"Well, now, dat is a good laugh. Wot kin dat little runt do?"

"He barks and wakes up the big dogs under the porch."

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—A cabinet portfolio of education has a good many advocates. It has also a good many opponents, who say that education, in the sex in industry, child welfare and the nursing of invalid veterans, but as for the major issues which confront an administration— with a deprecator shrug to finish the sentence.

However, if ever we do have one, the remark you hear most frequently, whenever it is mentioned, is that it will be the very ideal portfolio for a woman.

At first thought, it may seem rather odd that leaders of the woman's political movement in Washington don't take very enthusiastically to this suggestion, but a little investigation makes it understandable.

If the public chooses to tag certain governmental positions as essentially women's positions, the feminist mages have no particular objection, but if it's to be taken as necessarily following that certain other positions are to be tagged as essentially men's jobs, they do object most emphatically.

Of course there are women and women. They don't all—even in political organization circles—appear to set much store upon anything at all closely approaching to sex equality in the government service, but some, evidently do, especially in the ranks of the Woman's National Party, the militant body.

They point out that several women in recent years, have attained to high positions in the field of private finance. Are they hinting at the treasury portfolio?

They remind you that Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts, was the first of our national legislators to urge the importance of a countrywide survey of factory equipment, with a view to the stabilization of the prices of industrial products—something in the commerce department's line, what?

They quote the labor department roster to show that entire subdivisions are capably "manned" by women.

They don't stress the war and navy departments—farther than to say that mighty few men, among our lawmakers, know military affairs as Congresswoman Kahn knows them—but they're quite free to state that it's hard to think of another cabinet office which some woman couldn't be found to fill efficiently.

It isn't implied that women want to take over the whole government.

What the more aggressive

among the feminist groups in the capital find fault with is the masculine attitude of "Women may be all right to deal with problems of education, their own sex in industry, child welfare and the nursing of invalid veterans, but as for the major issues which confront an administration— with a deprecator shrug to finish the sentence.

Another thing (and pretty much all the women's organizations are agreed on this): Women propose to have more to say in the next conventions.

Yes, they're aware that they have more and more delegates, with each succeeding convention, and that their help's invited in the generally perfunctory work of examining credentials and that they're welcome to make seconding speeches—

But they want adequate representation on the resolutions committees.

They want a voice in deciding what the parties stand for.

Oh, they know, as well as anybody, that platforms mean next to nothing, but, if they can't do better, they're developing an ambition to have a fair share in future jobs of making them meaningless.

A PERTINENT POINT

Every ten years this one has to be revived.

An apparently sane man rushed into a police station exclaiming to the sergeant-in-arms: "My wife has disappeared." And waving his arms like a semaphore he thrust under the sergeant's chin a photo. "And this is her picture. I want her found at once."

The inspector gazed meditatively at the picture before him and then looked at the man.

"Er—why?" he asked.

An economist makes the plaintive inquiry: "What will follow all this wave of buying automobiles on installments? What will follow, probably, is installment buying of airplanes.—Detroit Free Press.

Two men have been sentenced to 30 years each in Los Angeles, and there is presumably nothing in the climate out there to prevent them from serving the full terms.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Stand By

When a person is honestly trying to make a success of his life, mistakes, they should be encouraged, I am sure we all agree. Many of us, however, would rather let "George" do the encouraging. We fear for our reputations if we should do it ourselves.

The following letter is from a young woman who would help her "boy friend" in his efforts to do better, but is afraid her own reputation may be periled:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I read your column every night and like your advice. I think you are as liberal in your views as could be expected."

"Here is my case. A short time ago I became acquainted with a young man. I dated with him a few times before he went to the city to study and work. In the past this young man, who is two years my senior, led a gay life and consequently received a bad reputation. As the case often is, he has later learned to regret this life. Now he seriously wants to do better and that is the reason he went out of town to work, because there always were some cracks in a small town who never get over a thing like that. Sometimes in this age it is hard to find a decent fellow, but I never went with any one who respected me more and to whom my every wish was law. Do you think my reputation is endangered? Do you advise me to stop writing to him?"

JUST SEVENTEEN.

I should say that "when a fellow needs a friend" most is when he's trying to make good after he realizes his mistakes. I don't think your reputation will suffer a bit by writing to him. "Seventeen," and your friendship may be just what he needs to help him make a fine man of himself.

This column is not a matrimonial bureau, an employment agency or anything of the kind, but we are asked to help find mates, homes, helpers and all sorts of things. Now a girl writes in that she has mislaid a friend and wants me to locate her. The lost girl is Tracy Herrick and she formerly lived at Mansfield, O. Her friend, who signs herself "Lonesome," says that she has some things that belong to Tracy and, besides that, would like to see her. I will send you your friend's address, Tracy if you like me.

And while we are on the subject, will my correspondents please try to remember that if they want personal replies, a stamped, self-addressed envelope will help me answer their letters more quickly.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The Daily Eye Bath Is Essential to Vision and Beauty

Cleanliness is one of the first essentials in achieving eye beauty. The daily bath for your eyes is just as important as your all-over tub. You should make your eye cup a part of your regular equipment as necessary and indispensable as your toothbrush.

When you first get up in the morning use your eye cup or dash cold water into your eyes. When once you have the habit of doing this you will never feel right starting a morning without it. Cup your hands, fill them with water, then blink into them.

It is a good thing to bathe your eyes at intervals during the day with an eye lotion or boric acid solution. Dissolve a teaspoonful of boric acid in a pint of hot water, and keep it on hand to use whenever your eyes feel tired. Another refreshing eye wash is a mild salt solution, made always with boiled water.

When you come in from a dusty drive or even from a city street, you should always bathe your eyes to free them from any foreign particles that may have found their way into them. This is necessary for beauty as well as for health, because nothing is quite as much a mark of bad grooming as little dark specks in the corners of one's eyes.

The eyes are the most sensitive organs in your whole body, and you should be exceedingly careful what you put into them. I am very strongly against using belladonna. Any eye drops that you use to add lustre and sparkle to your eyes you should be absolutely sure are put out by a reliable concern and contain no ingredients which could harm the fragile texture of your eyes.

You will find it a great help to you in your work if you keep a bottle of eye lotion on hand to use when your eyes feel tired. Either an eye cup or an eye dropper can be easily put into a corner of your desk, and you will find that its frequent use saves you many a nervous, unproductive, tired hour. Keep your eyes from becoming two-fold, and your attractiveness more than that.

I have spoken of phases of eye care which affect everyone. In another article I am going to speak especially to the woman who is reaching or has already arrived at maturity. I will tell you how to keep signs of age out of your eyes and eye area.

WORK FOR LORD NECESSARY TO SALVATION SAYS EVANGELIST

"Some men believe that because they pay their debts and lead moral lives that they are on the road to Heaven. These men are badly mistaken. The only way to get on the road to Heaven is to work for the Lord," Dr. W. E. Biederwolf told the Wednesday night audience at the First M. E. Church.

"The religious hypocrite is the best recommendation genuine Christianity can have. Men who have led an evil life cannot expect to enter the portals of heaven just because they have been responsible for one outstanding good deed. It is all the work which you do about the deeds of heroism and patriotism or going over the top or anything else at once or a rotten life, lived in open violation of God's laws and arrogant disbelief that in the face of the crucified Son of God."

"Do not let the hypocrite in the church bother you. It is true that we have some hypocrites in the church, but, friend, if you will promise not to get angry at a bit of humor with a real lot of truth in it, it might not be amiss for me to say that those who say they are hypocrites in the church and therefore will not come in, every hypocrite we have in the church came from your side."

"Another thing, and you know this is true, if you will gather the church crowd on one side of you and the world-crowd on the other side and they snarl their eyes and gather from each side five hundred at random, the church crowd will win when it comes to law-abiding citizenship and decency and honesty and honor in general, and all the finer points that go to make up a character that approves and man respects. The church crowd will outshine the world crowd as the blazing noon day sun outshines the palefaced moon. The hypocrite recommends the real thing in Christianity."

One hundred and fifty men attended the Business Men's luncheon at the Reformed Church Wednesday night in connection with the Biederwolf meetings. Dr. W. N. Shank, pastor of First M. E. Church, presided and introduced the speakers of the evening.

Earl Eavey addressed the company on the subject, "The Business Man and Christianity," directing the attention of the men to the fact of the need of Christ in business, because he had tried both ways. Dr. A. C. Messenger gave a talk on "The Doctor and Christianity," emphasizing the need of "The Great Physician" in the practice of medicine.

Attorney W. L. Miller indicated that "The Lawyer and Christianity" are not opposite terms, but that the legal profession contains many leading men who profess Christ and live the Christian life and that Christianity is necessary to the lawyer to make him a positive success. Mayor John W. Prugh talked on "The Necessity and Value of a Campaign of Evangelism for Xenia." He declared that he had heard some 545 cases last year and few, if any, came out of the true Christian home. He made a plea for a Christian Xenia.

Dr. W. E. Biederwolf spoke briefly.

ly, recalling his experience in Xenia sixteen years ago and offering a plea for Christ today. He invited the men to attend the First M. E. meetings and a large number present attended the services in a body.

At the opening of the meeting, Homer Grimes, singer, led in several songs and gave a reading, closing his part with one of Sir Harry Lauder's songs. The Rev. J. P. Lytle offered thanks and Dr. Biederwolf closed the meeting with prayer. Women of the Reformed Church served the luncheon.

J. Milton Kelly sang "He Lifted Me" at the evening meeting. The large chorus choir gives a special number each evening. The Rev. D. A. Sellers led the opening prayer. The following announcements were made: Friday evening is High School and Young People's Night, when Dr. Biederwolf will tell how he won the championship for bicyclists of the world. Saturday is "Community Day" with a picnic dinner in Shawnee Park if the weather permits; if not, at the church. The public is invited. Entertainment will be furnished in the afternoon at the church. Thursday night is "Birthday Night" and everyone is asked to bring pennies according to his age, for the expenses of the meeting. "The Story of the Angels" will be told by the evangelist Friday afternoon.

Evolution of every kind and brand was ruled out of the thinking man by Dr. Biederwolf Wednesday afternoon, to a small crowd who were interested in his subject, "Christian Evolution." The Bible was held up as the only story of the creation to hold faith in.

Sunday Schools of Xenia are planning a union rally day for next Sunday afternoon. Each Sunday School will meet in the various churches at 2 o'clock and march in a body to the First M. E. Church, for a service at 2:30, when Mr. Grimes and Mr. Kelly will lead in song. Dr. Biederwolf will preach. All the young people of the country are invited. Everyone is welcome, seats to be reserved especially for Sunday School pupils.

As We Grow Older

Proper Kidney Action Is More Than Ever Important.

AS we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. This tends to make one tired and achy, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions. Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

GERMAN PLANE ACE ESCAPES IN CRASH

BERLIN, Sept. 29.—Herr Udet, famous German war ace, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury today when the motor of a giant Rohrbach hydroplane he was testing in Copenhagen Sound failed. The plane fell three thousand meters, but Udet escaped uninjured.

The plane, which had been christened "Robbe," was being primed for a trans-Atlantic flight, probably to be made next year. According to the officials of the Rohrbach company, the plane was not damaged by the crash.

COLUMBUS FACING THEATER STRIKE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 29.—Columbus theaters faced the possibility of a strike of union musicians, stagehands and electricians today, as the result of an ultimatum delivered by the musicians' union to the two largest vaudeville theaters, setting October 9, at midnight as the last date upon which the union men will work unless a satisfactory settlement of wage scale controversy is reached meanwhile. The musicians, according to the theater managers, ask an increase for $55 to $70 per week, but have abandoned a demand for additional men in the orchestra pits. Negotiations are continuing, and managers of the theaters expressed the hope a settlement will be reached.

ALIMONY SOUGHT BY WIFE; NOTE CASES WON BY PLAINTIFF

Alimony is asked in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Zora Richards against Oscar L. Richards. They were married September 21, 1916, at Xenia, and have two children, Helen, 9, and Max, 6. Plaintiff charges that on September 19, 1927, she was struck and beaten about the face by her husband, causing her great pain, and on account of the assault, still suffers from pain about the head and neck. On the same occasion, the defendant also kicked her, bruising the flesh, and is guilty of extreme cruelty. It is alleged. Plaintiff claims the defendant abandoned her without cause and there is a separation in consequence of the ill treatment and abuse of the defendant. The couple possess household goods, the petition sets forth. Plaintiff seeks temporary alimony and expenses during the pendency of the suit, and asks for reasonable alimony and an allowance for the support of the children. She also requests to be decreed the household goods.

Here's Real Relief From Neuritis

In 24 to 48 Hours Pain Is Often Relieved and You Get Rest and Comfort Again.

Torturing pains—the kind that pierce and burn and never seem to let up—that rob a man of his sleep—that make him just a bag of nerves and all worn out. These are the pains that dope and coal tar products can only partially relieve.

The safest and most efficient way to get rid of the persistent, nerve-racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenru Special Formula No. 2. Be sure you get No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced if not almost banished those severe, torturing pains that have caused you so many sleepless nights. Continue for two or three days more or until you are satisfied with results. It doesn't matter how long you may have suffered or whether your Neuritis is in the shoulder, arm, neck or legs, Allenru Special Formula No. 2 should give you speedy relief. Sayre's Drug Store or any good druggist will be glad to supply you. —Adv.

The brunt of the day's work comes in the morning

Yet, too often, we come ill-prepared for those high-pressure hours

Crowded into the four morning hours is 70% of the world's work, new figures show. At schools and colleges, 70% of the hardest classes are before luncheon. Workers and students can't afford to be listless or draggy in the morning!

But too often, people don't realize the need of a proper breakfast. They feel energetic after a good sleep—so they think a hurried badly-chosen breakfast doesn't matter. Soon they feel tired, draggy, dull—

Business heads and educators say that high-pressure mornings demand better preparation. They urge better breakfasts—breakfasts that "stand by."

For morning vigor that lasts, authorities advise Quick Mother Oats. Oatmeal supplies energy, protein needed for tissue repair, minerals and vitamins that maintain health—and roughage! It is the best-balanced of all the cereals.

Long a favorite for its rich flavor, Quick Mother's Oats is therefore now the choice of thousands who want to speed up their mornings.

Start tomorrow to give your family this hot nourishing breakfast. Your grocer has Mother's Oats is therefore now the choice of always known, and the quick-cooking kind, cooks faster than toast.

LADY CALLED FATE

BY JOSEPHINE K. LITTLEJOHN

©1927 CENTRAL PRESS ASSN.

JOHN MOORE, New York business man, goes to Tucson, Ariz., on business, expecting to return to New York the next day. He meets a college associate, Philip Morton, who has business in Mexico. Both drink heavily of tequila and in the subsequent mixup in identity Moore finds himself in Mexico.

He has in his possession a letter of a girl which had been written to the girl, Ruth Henshaw, sends her a letter. Morton, to tell the supposed Morton that she will meet him at the church at Tubutama. Moore meets the girl at the church, and she tells him she is not Morton, whom she has been expecting. All start for the ranch, where they are to meet Rodriguez and Ruth's uncle.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN.

At the honk of the motor horn the iron-barred gates of mesquite wood swung inward, revealing a covered passageway some fourteen feet deep through the center of the first tier of buildings, which extended the width of the enclosure. Two thin, weatherbeaten old Chinamen, clinging like animated gargoyles to either gate, held them open and jerked bows and nods as the car rolled past.

"Retainers of the castle," commented John with satisfaction. Ruth laughed. "You are easily satisfied. They are Wong and Wing, the cook and gardener."

"Walls fourteen feet thick," went on John, disdaining her remark. "These are not just walls. They are rooms. The house is built in horizontal sections. These are the storage rooms for grain and general supplies down here."

"Inside the walls," said John, "we find a paved courtyard. In one corner a forge for the armorer."

"The blacksmith," scoffed Ruth. "He may shoe the steeds for the lord of the castle," John conceded, "but I insist that he tinkers with armor most of the time."

"He tinkers with the Ford—when we have one."

John Moore frowned at that. "Leave the Fords out of this," he said.

"That is easy just now. We haven't any."

"Good!" exclaimed John. "We are glad you are glad," retorted the girl a little drily.

John remembered suddenly that she had spoken of her uncle's financial straits. If the owner of an estate like this was without a machine while living so far from a railroad, he must be in straits, indeed.

The car had stopped at the far end of the courtyard before the gates set in the second tier of buildings. "Here," began John, as he opened the tonneau door for the girl to alight. "We see—"

"I'll save your imagination!" laughed Ruth as she stepped to the ground. "Though you seem to have plenty to waste. The Chinamen and the maids live in this left wing. In the right are our dining room and kitchen, living room, my uncle's office and several bedrooms in the towers above us. Ahead of us—I will show you. Come."

"I told you this was a fairy story," he said.

"I am coming," said John, close beside her and speaking very low. "Do not make any mistake about that."

"Oh," interrupted the girl hurriedly. "I meant—look—look at our garden!"

"All right," said John. "I'll look—"

High afternoon sunlight blazed down on flower beds of gorgeous color, scarlet, yellow and blue; sunlight quivering through the lacy green of the pepper trees; sunlight glinting on the steep brick retaining walls of the terraces which mounted the hill in three wide levels to the third tier of buildings—a brick structure with a battlement and four big towers.

"Do you like it?" asked the girl.

"Like it?" John drew a deep breath and faced her with his verdict. "I told you this was a fairy story," he said.

There was a step on the gravel walk beside them.

"It sure is some place," said John. With an expression of determined friendliness he stepped into line beside Ruth. He had made up his mind to let by-gones be by-gones and take a fresh running start with this New Yorker.

It would be very uncomfortable if he told Rodriguez that he, John, had tried to flirt a little with Ruth Henshaw in Tubutama. She would not tell. Anyone with half an eye could see that she loathed Rodriguez; she would not tell him anything. He had banked on that when he walked with her in the plaza. But if this man Morton was still around, up he might.

Of course, with Morton making such a dead set at the girl, Rodriguez might overlook little slips by his friends. He might—but you never could count on anything like that with Rodriguez; and it was a sure bet that what he didn't know wouldn't anger him. The chill thought of Rodriguez's anger gave him courage to attempt friendliness with Morton.

"It sure is some place," he repeated genially. "You ought to step up and see the swimming pool on the top terrace. Some pool. And some view from there. I'll say. Never'd look to find a garden like this hidden behind these old 'dobe walls, would you?"

"I'd like to see all of it," said John to the girl.

"You must see my uncle first."

"Your uncle isn't here, Miss Henshaw," put in Clench. "Wong says he and Rodriguez rode down to the lower ranch. They'll be back about supper time. I'll be pleased to show Mr. Morton—"

Mr. Moore turned and stared at Clench. "When you are speaking of me," he said deliberately, "you can remember that my name is Moore."

Clench blinked.

"Not—Morton," added John. "Oh!" exclaimed Clench. "I get you."

"You see," said Ruth Henshaw, addressing Clench in turn, "it was my mistake in the first place. I shouldn't have called him 'Morton' to you."

"Oh, that's all right," Clench assured her. "You didn't give nothing away. I knew his name, anyway. But 'Moore' is all right with me. And as I was saying, I'll be glad to show him round the place."

Ruth looked at John with eyes in which little dancing daredevils hid themselves behind a veil of polite regretfulness. This was just the opportunity she had been waiting for; this would do beautifully. "I am sorry I cannot show you the garden," she told him, "but I shall be very busy until dinner time. Mr. Clench knows the way about. And Wong—where is he?"

"Here I am, Missy. What you want you no got?" The thin old Chinaman shuffled up to her from the gate and stood nodding like a mandarin doll.

"Get Mr. Moore's bag from the car, Wong, and show him up to his room."

"Allee right!"

Ruth turned again to John and Clench, this time including them both in a little formal bow of leave taking. "You will excuse me?"

"Certainly, mam," said Clench. "Hasta luego, senorita," said John. There were a lot of other things he might have said if they had been alone. But there was Clench.

The two men watched her walk quickly down a flower bordered path and disappear inside the house.

"Her uncle and her live down here," Clench said. "The house on the hill they use for guests mostly."

John Moore gave him no heed. He was wondering if Ruth Henshaw actually believed she could exile him to the society of Clench for the whole afternoon with a mere nod of her head? He'd show her—

"Come on! Come on! What you waitin' for you no got?" shrieked Wong.

No Difference of Opinion When Supremacy is so Outstanding

In its repertoire of brilliant abilities, the New Hudson Super-Six asserts its supremacy in vivid performance facts that stand free and clear of opinion or debate.

Here is a new power in motordom—totally different in development and expression—totally new in range and efficiency—the smooth and mighty power of the steam engine delivered with silky ease and vivacity.

The basis of this great Hudson capacity is a new companion invention to the Super-Six principle which turns waste heat to power. Together they combine the highest efficiency in power generation and transmission ever achieved within our knowledge.

In the new Hudson motor, spark knock heretofore characteristic of the high-compression motor is eliminated, and ordinary gasoline gives the performance results sought through special and higher-priced fuels.

It is receiving the greatest public reception in Hudson history, because in all ways it is the greatest Hudson Super-Six ever built.

Answers to Correspondents COLDS AND DIET

"I have been bothered with colds and catarrh. What is the best diet to counteract these? I noticed benefit from orange juice fast. E."

There is no particular diet for colds and catarrh, E., other than the balanced diet. And that means one that has all of the elements in proper proportions for proper functioning. It has been proved by animal experimentation, and clinically, that a wrong diet, especially one deficient in vitamins, lowers the resistance of all of the tissues of the body, and the mucous membranes are of course included. (It must be remembered that the other factors of the diet are just as important as the vitamins.)

The fact that you benefited by an orange juice diet might indicate that you had been having a diet deficient in vitamins, for orange juice is especially high in vitamin B, the anti-neuritic vitamin. Or, it may be possible that you've been overeating.

There are other factors that you have to consider in chronic colds and catarrh—possible malformations in the nose, lack of fresh air, irritating vapors (too much smoking, for instance), etc.

I suggest you have not only a physical examination, but a special examination of your nose and throat. We have an article which has something on colds, catarrh, hay fever, etc., which may help you. Enclose fully self-addressed stamped envelope with your request. (Ask also for our article on Balanced Diet.)

Orange Juice Hard on the Kidneys?

E. continues: "Since my orange juice fast, I've had a great deal of trouble with my back. Is orange juice hard on the kidneys? I do not drink coffee as a rule; however, I do love it once in a while. Do you consider it detrimental to the kidneys if used only occasionally?"

No, orange juice is not hard upon the kidneys, nor anything else, E., and it can be taken freely—except, possibly, in very irritable stomachs, when fruit acids are not received well for a while. Orange juice, while acid to the taste, leaves a final alkaline reaction in the body, and as the tissue fluids and blood are normally faintly alkaline, a preponderance of the alkaline foods should be eaten. (The alkaline foods are: fruits, with the exception of prunes, plums and cranberries; vegetables except rhubarb and sorrel, and milk.)

It's an old idea, hard to eradicate, that a pain in the back means something wrong with the kidneys. A pain in the back is practically never due to kidney diseases. Because backache is a very common symptom, every quack who has something to sell exploits this falsehood. Coffee apparently is not harmful to the majority, if taken in moderation, although a cup of strong coffee contains two to four grains of caffeine. (Caffeine is a stimulant and a medical dose is two grains.) Coffee and tea do undoubtedly cause insomnia frequently, and many are improved by their elimination. There are two or three brands of decaffeinated coffee on the market. Personally, I don't notice the difference in the taste.

As I told you before, you should have a thorough physical examination.

If you are interested in the subject, we have an article on the diet in kidney inflammation. Send only a self-addressed, stamped envelope with request.

Pimples, Boils, Skin Eruptions

Skilled physicians recognize the appearance of pimples, boils and other skin eruptions as being an indication of an abnormal condition of the system. This is why so many thousands have been enabled to free themselves of these unsightly blemishes and painful annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

"I suffered from impure blood—was weak, and I had lost so much weight, I didn't look natural. I had pimples and was also bothered with a breaking-out that itched terribly. I also had boils one after another. I tried different kinds of remedies, but nothing did me any good until a friend advised me to take S.S.S. which I did. This was some time ago. Now I feel well, and I am getting along fine. S.S.S. stopped the itching and it cured me of boils. I advise all weak and run-down people to give S.S.S. a trial. It clears up the skin; makes you strong and fills you with energy." Mrs. J. W. Barker, 1337 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.
